SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Hugh Scariest, tiring of a lave affair with Lody Newhaven, fails in leve with Rachel West, a wealthy and philastiropic sirt. Lord Newhaven could not swim.

In spite of himself his thoughts went have challenges Hugh to draw lots with him, using two cigar-lighters; the man drawing the cherrier lighter of the two to die by his cwa basse within five months. They draw.

His feelings toword him had not changed, but heep had been forced during the careword face. "If he does repent," she said to herself, recalling the careword face. "If he does the content of the plant to make a freen start? JOHN SWINTON'S VIEWS ON HIS LORDSHIP.

How He "Inherited" His Great Estate-A Talk With One of the Clodhoppers Whose Ancestors Owned It.

Once upon a time, not so very long ago, when I visited the British Isles, I rambled over the immense and beautiful estate of one of the greatest, richest and most powerful members of the British aristocracy. The estate is the property of an Earl who has for some years figured in his country's politics.

I saw lovely grounds and groves, grand old forest trees, flower gardens, broad green swards, pretty walks, magic delis, purling brooks and other charming features of the landscape. Off at a distance of the landscape of the iton, to build a working the place.

It is a gratification to organized labor all over the country is know that its influence was brought to bear on the fleenate of Georgia in the fight to prohibit the employment of children under ten years of age in the factories throughout the State. When the organizations of Georgia first began to make their fight the fact was published in The Evening World, and the C. F. U. as well as other central bodies of the city passed resolutions indorsing the move which were sent to the Georgia Senate. The contention of the employers who opposed the passage of the law was that g 'would deprive poor widows of needed support."

After considerable discussion, the Ger-

SILK HANDS MAY STRIKE.

Hudson County Want

Bigger Wages. The silk mill hands in West Hoboken, New Durham and other points in North Hudson County. N. J., are preparing for a big strike that is likely to tie up the slik industry there.

The hands complain of low wages. The hands complain of low wages. The weavers have organized as the United Silk Weavers of Hudan County, with headquarters at Beuchler's Hall, West Hobokes.

A call was issued to-day for shop meetings at the Relling, David & Shoen and Clifton mills, where the question of a strike is to be thoroughly discussed. The Union controls 2,000 employees.
